

Dear Students,

We hope you are excited about your upcoming GO Program and look forward to your preparatory class after spring break!

With ongoing news of the coronavirus, COVID-19, we want to assure you that your safety is of utmost importance to us. We have been closely monitoring the virus since it was first detected and we continue to monitor its progress in each relevant country. As of Feb. 18, 2020, there are no restrictions on international travel due to COVID-19 outside of mainland China. We currently are not approving any GO programs to mainland China. If circumstances change in any other region where you are scheduled to study away, we are committed to making adjustments.

As part of our normal protocol, the GO office regularly reviews information from the U.S. State Department, Center for Disease Control, Risk Management and Security Advisors, news media, and our local partners in all countries where our students travel. Following U.S. State Department advisories, we would cancel a program in a region with a Level 3 or 4 advisory. If a GO program is canceled by Susquehanna, we will arrange appropriate refunds and/or other program options.

Susquehanna remains committed to fostering cross-cultural understanding. We will provide an update if there are any changes to travel restrictions; meanwhile, if you have questions or concerns about your GO program, please contact us.

Sincerely,

Scott Manning, Dean of Global Programs

Molly Roe, Director of the Global Opportunities Program
